ANCIENT WILLS.

CONTRIBUTED BY E. B. O'CALLAGHAN, M.D.

Abstract of the Will of ELIZABETH VANDEPOELE, of Albany, widow, dated 6 Feb., 1722.

She left the following children: Margaret, m. to Volckert Donw, Maria, m. to Johannes Vinthagen; Magdalena, m. to Abraham Lansing; Helena, m. to Jan Barentse Wemp; Arientie, not married at date of Will. Letters of Adm. granted 5 Jan'y, 1722.

Abstract of the Will of LUYKAS and CATHARINÉ WITBECK, of the manor of Rensselaerswyck (Albany County).

Had children—Johannis, died Sept., 1750; Abraham; Geertruy. The said Geertruy Witbeck married — Van Veghten, and had the following children:—Catharine, m. Harmanus H. Wendell; Cornelis, Luykas, Engeltje, Philip, Marytie, and Johannis Van Veghten. The above is taken from the Will of Johannis Luykase Witbeck, in N. Y. Wills, Lib. 17, p. 261.

Abstract of the Will of a Christian Physician. (N. Y. Wills, Lib. 37, p. 209.)

ABIJAH PERKINS was a physician and surgeon in the town of New Marlboro, N. Y. He made his Will 20 Aug., 1776, and it was proved 21 Sept., 1784. After bequeathing half his household furniture and the usufruct of his estate during her life to his wife, Lucy, he leaves his estate to his children Hannah and George Whitefield Perkins, after their mother's death. And "in testimony of the truth of the Sacred Scriptures and the Christian Religion, and of the love I bear my dear brothers and sisters, I pray them to accept of a Bible in 24, viz.: to John, Isaac and Seth Perkins, Lucy Ely, Elizabeth Sterlin, Margaret Belden, Sarah Marvin, Hannah and Lydia Perkins, one each, earnestly requesting them to read the same." He desires further that his children be carefully and religiously educated, and brought up both by example and precept, and taught "above all things the knowledge of the One only living and true God and our Lord Jesus Christ; that their tender years might be spent in reading the Holy Scriptures and goodly writers, such especially as holy Mr. Williston, Rutherford, Welch, and the pious and accurate Mr. Hervey, Dr. Doddridge, Mr. Baxter, Dr. Tillotson, among the moderns, as also the searching and true divines Mr. Sheppard and Mr. Edwards, of the ancient fathers of the church, such as Austin, Chrysostom, Augustin and Calvin, Luther, Melancthon—the three last being the apostles of the Reformation." He directs that his son George be educated in some Protestant Collegiate School, and desires (if God should touch his heart with his saving grace) that he should be "a dispenser of the Gospel, like unto that learned and indefatigable preacher the Rev. Mr. George Whitefield, who now sleeps in the Lord;" and concludes by giving to his sister Hannah, "Mr. Erskine's Gospel Sonnetts, now at his hon'd father's in Lyme."

Abstract of the Will of Rev. GUALTHERUS DU BOIS, dated 13 January, 1740-50; proved 31 January, 1753. (N. Y. Wills, Lib. 18, p. 226.)

Gives to his eldest son Gualtherus, his watch and Gold Seal Ring, and to him and his sister Elizabeth, or the survivor of them, all his linens and woolens, his household furniture, his horse and chure, together with all his Dutch books and MSS. belonging to his library, except his plate, to be equally divided between them. To Peter and Gualtherus, children of his son John Du Bois, he leaves one-half of his Latin Books, to be divided equally between them, and the other half to Gualtherus, son of his dec'd son Isaac. All the rest of his real and personal estate he devises as follows: One-quarter to his son Gualtherus; one-quarter to his dau. Elizabeth; one-quarter to the two above-named children of his son John or the survivor of them; and the remaining quarter to Helena, Gualtherus and Margaret, ch. of his dec'd son Isaac, share and share alike, the shares of the minor life may be highly attractive to those who believe that "universal popularity is seldom less than a scandal," and merit perusal by those who, as voters or seekers of votes, look at servility and suppleness with a more favorable eye. c. n. m.

JOHN M. PARKER, a Judge of the Supreme Court for the Sixth District, died at Owego, on 16th December, 1873, and left another vacancy on the bench. He was born at Greenville, Washington Co., in 1805; graduated at Middlebury College, Vt., in 1825; was a member of the XXXIVth and XXXVth Congresses; and was elected a Judge of the Supreme Court in 1859, and re-elected in 1867 for eight years. c. n. m.

NICHOLS.—John Gough Nichols, F.S.A., died on Thursday, the 13th November last, at his seat at Holmwood, near Dorking, in England, in the 67th year of his age. Born in London in the year 1807, and arriving at maturity while yet his grandfather, the elder John Nichols, and his father, John Bowyer Nichols, were both in active life, he inherited largely their literary and antiquarian accomplishments and tastes. The untiring devotion of these three successive members of the same family and name to the illustration of English local history, topography, and genealogy will ever be held in grateful remembrance by all students in these branches of literature. For nearly four-score years—from 1778 to 1856—the Gentleman's Magazine was successfully conducted under their editorial management. Mr. Nichols (the subject of this notice) also edited and published the Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, 8 vols.; the Topographer and Genealogist, Collectanea Topographica et Genealogica, 1846 to 1858, 3 vols. royal 8vo; and, in being a continuation of the Collectanea, 1846 to 1858, 3 vols. royal 8vo; and, in 1862, commenced the Herald and Genealogist, which is still in course of publication. He was one of the founders of the Camden Society, and edited several of its publications, besides contributing important and valuable aid to the respective editors of nearly all the others. "His death creates a void which will not readily be filled in that field of literature which he had made so peculiarly his own." J. J. L.

MERRITT.—George Merritt died of heart-disease at his residence, Lyndhurst, Irvington-on-Hudson, on Sunday, October 5, 1873. He was descended from Thomas Merritt, who came from England to Cambridge, Mass., about 1630. His son Thomas,² who was also born in England, was of New London. His son Thomas,³ of Rye, Westchester Co., N. Y., had a son Joseph,⁴ also of Rye. His son Nehemiah,⁵ of Quaker Hill, Dutchess Co., had three sons. The second son Nehemiah,⁶ Jr., lived in Queensbury, and had several sons; the youngest, Benjamin,⁷ was the father of George,⁸ the subject of this sketch.

He was born in White Creek, Washington Co., Aug. 14, 1807. In 1822, he went to New York City, and entered the store of Merritt & Dart. He afterwards became senior partner of the firm of Merritt & Ely, dry goods merchants, where he remained until 1851, when he retired from active business, although still interested as special partner in several firms. He was then elected President of the New England Car Spring Co., which office he held till within a few years. In 1845, he married Julia, daughter of the late Alanson Douglas, of Troy, by whom he had six children, four of whom are now living. In 1867, he removed from New York to his country-seat at Irvington, where he continued to reside up to the time of his death.

He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and held various offices and posts of trust. His liberality was well known, and was yet free from ostentation or publicity.

During the last two or three years of his life, he suffered very much from ill-health; but although for a long time confined to his house, he was still patient and uncomplaining, and ever ready to sympathize with, or interest himself in, those about him. He was always modest and dignified, and forgetful of himself in looking after the welfare of others. The funeral services were held in the beautiful parish church, and he was buried in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, near Tarrytown. n. n.

The year 1873 has been one quite remarkable for its necrology, embracing many eminent names. The daily, weekly, and annual publications dispense with any attempt to call the roll. Let us fill our minds with happier thoughts for the New Year. c. n. m.

No. 2.

HERALDRY AND GENEALOGY.

BY REV. BEVERLEY R. BETTS.

An Address Delivered on the Occasion of the Fifth Anniversary of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, February 25, 1874.

MR. PRESIDENT AND GENTLEMEN:

The custom of this Society requires that once a year it should depart from the dry detail of dates and names and pedigrees with which it is engaged at ordinary times, and on the evening of its anniversary, when its rooms are honored by a fuller attendance of its associates and friends, and graced by the presence of the fairer sex, should listen to an address from one of its members upon some subject connected with its labor. This task, which, by your courtesy, has devolved upon me this year, I approach with modesty and hesitation. It is a task which necessarily grows more difficult year by year. The purposes of the Society and the methods of its work have been already fully explained.

Our first President, of whose presence and active and efficient services we have, to our great regret, been deprived, by his removal to another part of the State, discussed, in a careful and elaborate discourse, the history and uses of Genealogy as a Science. Two not less worthy of our associates, who are happily still with us, working industriously for the Society, brought before us, in successive years, other views of the nature and methods of our work. The one taught us the usefulness and value of the study of biography, not only as a help in preserving the records of the past, but also as a firm foundation for the researches of future students. The other entered more into details; and, after giving us much useful instruction as to methods of investigation, and the rules for making family histories and tables of descent authentic, trustworthy, and intelligible (without which qualities they are worthless, and the trained genealogist rejects them with scorn), he proceeded to defend the right of the children of daughters to stand side by side with those of sons in pedigrees and family histories. It is not necessary now to reopen the questio vexata of the propriety of recording in every pedigree the respective lines of matrilinear as well as patrilinear descents. The objection is obvious, viz.: interminable voluminousness. The reasons which, in the judgment of our esteemed associate, outweigh this single but formidable objection he has laid before us with all distinctness. It may be observed, in passing, that he has no less famous a coadjutor than Sir Bernard Burke, the [Hon. Lucius M. Boltwood of Hartford, Ct., informed the writer shortly before his death, some two years since, that he had had in his hands for a considerable time a full history of the Noble Family, prepared with thoroughness by himself; which, to his great regret, he had not been able to publish, because that family had never shown itself ready to meet the needful expense of doing so. May some future investigator succeed in bringing these valuable papers to the light!]

[The dates given in these articles of the births, marriages, and deaths of the Westfield Deweys are of the more value, as the town records of Westfield have been recently mistreated, or misplaced beyond the reach of the present Town Clerk, as he has within a few weeks informed the writer. Such mishaps ought to be made impossible in all the New England towns by jealous watchfulness for their prevention. The record of the Utah branch of the Westfield Deweys has been just sent to the writer from Ogden City, Utah, by one of the family, who read out there the account given on the Deweys in THE RECORD.]

V. JOSIAH DEWEY, Jr., No. 75. III. (see p. 68), who m. Melitable Miller, of Westfield, Mass., removed about 1699 to Lebanon, Ct. The record furnished of his children on p. 68 pertained only to those b. in Lebanon.

The writer has since discovered that he had one child b. in Westfield (and perhaps others, but probably not), namely, Dea. Josiah Dewey 3d.

DEA. JOSIAH DEWEY 3d, b. in Westfield March 1, 1696—7, m. Dec. 4, 1718, Sarah Hutchinson, b. June 6, 1696. He was a farmer at Lebanon, where he d. Oct. 30, 1771. She d. there Sept. 9, 1776.

[Lebanon was settled, and largely from Westfield and Northampton, Mass., in Nov., 1695. The first Cong. Ch. was formed there in 1700, with Rev. Joseph Parsons as its first pastor, 1700—11.]

Fifth Generation.—Children:

- I. JOSIAH DEWEY, } twins, b. Oct. 19, 1719, d. soon.
- II. SARAH DEWEY, }
- III. SARAH DEWEY 2d, b. Sept. 24, 1721, m. William Negus. She d. June, 1788.

completing his trade, took up his profession as journeyman, pursuing the same at various places until 1856, when he came to his present home at Rossville. Here he engaged in the mercantile business, in which line of enterprise he met with immediate success, and in 1860 he engaged in the manufacture of ice cream for the wholesale trade in connection with his mercantile interests, and successfully continued in both lines of enterprise up until 1900. During his many years of residence at Rossville. Mr. Bogardus has not only been a useful and good citizen, but has taken an active interest in the local affairs, public as well as social. He is an active member of the Woodrow Methodist Episcopal Church; after serving as one of the stewards for a number of years, in 1872 he was elected a member of the board of trustees, and has been president of the board for a period of about thirty-five years.

✓ Mr. Bogardus married, January 10, 1849, Jane Androvette Guyon, born December 31, 1827, daughter of Cornelius and Gertrude (Mersereau) Guyon, and he had born to him one son, Charles Bogardus, October 26, 1849. The mother, Jane Androvette (Guyon) Bogardus, died February 10, 1900. She was a most estimable lady and possessed many excellent characteristics. Like her husband she was for many years a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church at Woodrow. During the active years of her life she devoted much of her time to church and charitable work, her home having been the recognized stopping place for missionaries and clergymen at all times.

Charles Bogardus, Jr., only son of Charles and Jane Androvette (Guyon) Bogardus, was born at Troy, New York, October 26, 1849. He received his educational advantages in the schools of Rossville, borough of Richmond, and at the age of seventeen entered the collegiate institute at Fort Edward, New York, where he pursued his studies for a period of three years.

Upon his return home he became associated with his father in the mercantile and manufacturing business under the name of C. Bogardus and Son. In 1876 Mr. Bogardus, Jr., with his father, engaged in the undertaking business in addition to other interests, and has continued in the latter up until the present period. Not unlike his venerable father, he has taken an active interest in local affairs and in every way has proven himself a worthy scion of a worthy sire. He is a member of Woodrow Methodist Episcopal Church and has been treasurer of the board of trustees for a period of nearly twenty years.

Charles Bogardus, Jr., married, December 14, 1870, Julia Frances Leavitt, born May 12, 1853, in New York City, daughter of Captain Aaron and Mary Jane (Spafford) Leavitt. Of this marriage have been born the following children: 1. Augustus Leavitt, born September 20, 1871, deceased. 2. Fannie Spafford, born July 14, 1873, married Robert N. Dixon, no issue. They have an adopted daughter, Maud Alice Dixon. 3. William Thornton, born May 9, 1880, married, July 23, 1900, Abigail De Waters, born June 26, 1881. Their children: Fanny Spafford, born July 11, 1901, died February 3, 1906, and William Thornton, Jr., born June 1, 1906.

FAMILY OF ELY. ✓

This family in England dates back to a remote antiquity. Its name belongs to one of the most important cities, and Ely Cathedral is one of the finest and most famous specimens of Gothic architecture to be found in any land. The arms of this family, which were borne as far back as the sixteenth century, are: Argent, a fesse engrailed between six fleur de lis, or. Crest, an arm erect, vested argent, hand proper, holding a fleur de lis sable. Motto, Scientia Libertas et Virtus.

The ancestor of the American branch of this family was Richard Ely, who was born at Plymouth, Devonshire, England, and came here between 1660 and 1663. He first settled in Boston and later removed to Lyme, Connecticut, and with this place his name has been identified and he and many of his descendants found their resting place in honored sepulchres. His first wife, Joane, died in England, January 7, 1660. She is believed to have been a sister of John Phipps, Baron Mulgrave, the famous navigator. By this marriage he had children: William, Joseph, Richard and Daniel. His second wife was Elizabeth, widow of Captain John Cullich, and by this marriage he had one son, Samuel. Richard Ely was during his entire life, one of the most prominent of the early settlers of Connecticut. His estate was a tract of 3,000 acres, and he and his sons were the owners of 4,000 acres. His son William went to the West Indies, and on a voyage to New England he nearly perished from shipwreck, and prayers and thanksgiving were rendered to Providence by this truly pious family for his safe return. After a useful life, Richard Ely died at Lyme, November 24, 1684. His wife died November 12, 1683, and an elegant monument, erected by his descendants, not only perpetuates their memory, but shows their appreciation of their many virtues.

William Ely, the eldest son, went first to the West Indies, but afterward joined his father at Lyme. He was baptized October, 1647, and died February 23, 1717. He married Elizabeth Smith, May 12, 1681. She died October 10, 1750, at the age of eighty-nine. He was Judge of the Court, and, like his father, was during his life a man of importance and influence. He was the father of ten children, of which Richard was the third.

Captain Richard Ely, the third son, was born at Lyme, in 1690, died in 1767 and was buried at East Hartford. He was captain of militia, and a man of great usefulness and influence. He married Ruhama Thompson, in 1714. His second wife was Margaret Olcott, married in 1730. He was the father of thirteen children, of whom the oldest was William Ely.

Captain William Ely was born at Lyme, October, 1715, died April 3, 1802. In 1737 he married Elizabeth Perkins, of Ipswich, Massachusetts. She was born December 30, 1715, died May 27, 1782. He was a captain in the Third Connecticut Regiment in the French war. All the preceding generations lived and died at Lyme, but in 1756 Captain William Ely removed to Livingston, New Jersey, which has been the home of many of his descendants. Captain William Ely and Elizabeth Perkins were the parents of ten children. One died in infancy, the others were: William, Elizabeth, who died young, Abraham, Elizabeth, born 1745, Lois, Lucy, Joseph, Benjamin and Moses.

Moses Ely (the fourth generation) was born at Livingston, New Jersey, on Orange Mountain, November 18, 1756, died July 14, 1838. He married, January 3, 1782, Rebecca Cook, a descendant of Ellis Cook, who was among the early settlers of Southampton, Long Island, and daughter of Stephen and Rebecca (Smith) Cook. Their children were: 1. Elizabeth, born August 28, 1783, married (first) George Ring; (second) Rev. John Watson. 2. Abraham Halsey, born May 18, 1787, married Emma Samo, 1816, and died June 6, 1849. 3. Moses, Jr., born February 21, 1790, married Eliza Coleman, 1813, and died September 14, 1842. 4. Benjamin, born December 3, 1792, married (first) Eliza Bell, 1822; (second) Martha W. Higgins, nee Allen, 1837. He died February 19, 1860. 5. Epaphras Cook. 6. Sarah, born November 24, 1797, married, 1816, Abraham Halsey, a descendant of Thomas Halsey, one of the original settlers of Southampton, Long Island. She died January, 1881. 7. Smith, born May 22, 1800. 8. John, born February 20, 1803, died January 31, 1894. 9. Anna Maria, born April 8, 1805, married Joseph Kitchell, 1826, died November 9, 1875.

Moses Ely took an active part in the war of the Revolution, and was in charge of wagons and supply train. He was a member of Captain Elijah Squire's Company, of West Livingston. After the Revolution, he removed to New York and purchased a place in Duane street, a little east of College Place. He afterwards returned to his farm at Livingston and died there.

Epaphras Cook Ely, was born on Lombard street (now Trinity place), New York, April 15, 1795. His father at that time had a contract in relation to building Trinity church, and therefore resided in a house nearby. He inherited a large part of the family estate at Livingston, and this still remains in possession of his family. When a boy he engaged in the tanning business with his brother Moses in Orange and Ulster counties, New York. During the War of 1812 he served in his brother's stead as a member of Captain Benjamin Horton's company, in the regiment commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Michael Smith. After the war he engaged in the tanning business at Esopus, New York. In October, 1825, he removed to New York City, and resided on Stone street, between William and Broad streets. He afterward lived on Duane street, between Church and Chapel streets (now West Broadway). He was extensively engaged with Moses Ring in the hide and leather business on Ferry street. He died in 1864, and was buried by the side of his wife in the Ely cemetery at Livingston, New Jersey. He was a member and attendant of the Seventh Presbyterian Church, but later was connected with the Fourteenth Street Presbyterian Church, and afterwards with the church on Madison Square, now Dr. Parkhurst's.

Mr. Ely married Julia Ann, daughter of Ambrose and Elizabeth (Mulford) Kitchell. She was born in 1800 and died March, 1864, at her residence, No. 132 West Twenty-third street. Their children were: Ambrose K., see forward; Smith, see forward; William Henry, born May 14, 1829, married, August 30, 1864, Maria Josephine Rogers; Edwin Augustus, born August 15, 1836; Maria Louise, born June 2, 1846, married, October 14, 1868, George Burritt Vanderpool.

Ambrose Kitchell Ely was born at Livingston, Essex county, New Jersey, on the Ely homestead farm, January 31, 1823, died February 6, 1907. While still a lad his father gave him a position in his hide and leather store in Ferry street, New York, where he was trained to the business, and after a few years' familiarity with it accepted a position with Lapham, Corse & Co., 18 Ferry street, one of the most prominent houses in the trade, with whom and their successors, Thorne, Watson & Co., he remained some fourteen years, having in the meantime been admitted as a partner in the firm, and in 1857 withdrew to conduct the same line of business on his own account, which he continued to do until 1880, when he relinquished mercantile business, and from that time up to his decease confined himself to the care of his real estate and other interests.

Hon. Smith Ely, a most distinguished citizen of New York, was born at Hanover, Morris county, New Jersey, at the house of his grandfather, Ambrose Kitchell, April 17, 1825. He was educated for the legal profession, studying in the office of Frederick De Peyster, a noted lawyer in his day. Mr. Ely graduated from the University Law School, and was admitted to the bar in 1846, but he never practiced, finding commercial pursuits more congenial to his tastes. In the hide and leather trade he built up a very extensive business. Being an active supporter of the Democratic party in politics, he was elected school trustee in 1856, member of board of supervisors from 1860 to 1870, at which time the office was abolished, in 1858-59 served in the state senate from the fifth New York district, having been elected by the Democratic party, and in 1873-4 he was commis-

On the morning of February 13, 1886, when in his library and about to leave his home for his office, he was seized with cramps in the bowels. Passing into his bed-room, he threw himself upon his bed and in less than three minutes he had breathed his last, to the indescribable shock of his wife and eldest daughter, who were with him, and to his law associate, Sumner Howe Ely, who had remained in the library waiting his return. The years of strain put upon his physical organism throughout his busy life finally caused a stoppage of the action of the heart.

On the occasion of his death the courts of Kings county were adjourned as a mark of respect, and a memorial meeting was held of the Bar Association of Kings county, at which the following resolution was adopted:

“The life of Winchester Britton was at the bar, and it was as a lawyer that he was known. His associates in that profession in Kings county, where he lived and largely practiced, deem it fit that they should state their appreciation or regard for him, and their recognition of the loss which they have sustained by his death, in a public manner and permanent form. With Mr. Britton the law was not a mere trade or vocation; it was a learned and honorable profession. He considered it a duty not only to master the principles of the law, as they had been understood, but to keep his knowledge abreast of the latest application of those principles to the multiform exigencies growing out of the developing needs and business of his time. To that task he brought an acute and active intellect, an ability for work, persistent industry and a logical capacity and power of severe analysis which placed him, in the judgment of his associates, in the mind of the court and in the appreciation of the public in the very front of his profession. To that equipment he added a power of advocacy and of convincing and eloquent statement that made his gifts felt in all forensic contests. He was a man of courage and determination, and to those qualities he added courtesy as a gentleman and a lawyer. He will be mourned by his associates as a lawyer and as a true and honorable friend, whose kindly manner and frank and generous courtesy had endeared him to all who had become intimate with him. The bar of Kings county tender to his afflicted family their condolence and sympathy, and they request the courts of this county to have this testimonial entered upon their minutes.”

The address of Supreme Court Justice Calvin E. Pratt was as follows:

“Mr. Chairman and Brethren of the Bar: I feel I speak the sentiment of every man present on this occasion when I say we have not yet recovered from the shock caused by the announcement of the death of Brother Britton. The blow was so sudden and unexpected, the victim a man of such physical vigor, of such prominence in our profession, and so closely allied to us all by the ties of professional fraternity that the mind is dazed and language falters upon the lip. It is a duty we owe to ourselves when such a man dies to halt in our hurried march and testify to his merits as a lawyer and character as a man. What place so appropriate as this, where he made his greatest effort and where the most signal victories of his life were won, to fill the cup of honor to his memory. If I could do otherwise, which happily I cannot, the partialities of an uninterrupted friendship of twenty-seven years would only permit me to speak of the merits of our deceased brother as I observed them through that busy period. Before speaking of my knowledge of him as a lawyer, I ought to allude to certain qualities which he possessed in an eminent degree, without which no man can be a great lawyer. He had a good constitution, as is popularly said, robust health, abstemious habits, a strong, vigorous body, capable of incredible labor and endurance, and the nervous energy of a trained athlete. Combined with these he had natural and acquired industry that was phenomenal, and a zeal and ambition for eminence in his profession that never abated. Born and brought up in the country where men earn an honest living by labor, he early learned the lesson of self-reliance while his heart was filled with human sympathy. Added to these qualities was the effect of a thorough classical education and an extensive experience with men and affairs. Upon a mind naturally active, acute, tireless and discriminating, and, above, all, honest—such was the foundation upon which his character as a lawyer was built. As a lawyer he was profoundly learned. No man came to the trial of a cause better prepared at every point of a case, or presented his case with more zeal or learning. In equity, commercial, criminal and constitutional law he was equally skillful and successful. His points and briefs were models of terse, in-
