WOODWARD

FOLK (Fulk or Foulque)

(Part one compiled by a descendant in Washington)

The Folk family is traditionally descended from the Fulk (or Foulques), Count of Anjou, of Ancient France. They are directly descended from a French Huguenot King of France, as is borne out by French, German and Dutch records of the family. In 1740-41 Jacob Folk and several brothers (probably with their parents) came to this country (America) from Winningstedt, Holland or Williamstadt, Germany and settled in the Dutch Fork of Newberry County, S. C. (Annals of Newberry County, and Family Tradition). Jacob later went to the place of Pomaria, S. C., where he died June 20, 1774. He married a Miss Epting (daughter of Adam E. Epting or John Adam Epting) and was the father of the seven following children:

I. Henry Folk, eldest son died in the Revolutionary War. He is listed in the payroll of Capt. Henington's Co. for August, September and October, 1779. (S. C. Histl. & Gen. Mag. Vol. 5).

II. George Folk, second son appears to have settled in Berkeley County (census 1790) and was the father of a number of children. He was killed by a falling tree.

III. John Adam Folk, third son was born March 7, 1770 and died December 21, 1844. He married Eva Margaret Dickert who was born in 1780 and died September 3, 1811, and was the father of the following children:
