Dear Dr. Peeples,

Some months ago my cousin, Annie Reynolds Day of Selma, wrote that you were to publish an updated article in Transactions of the Huguenot Society of South Carolina, regarding the Grimball family.

My mother, Halsa Seabrook Welch, and I would like to correct our family records before another generation uses them. As you can see by her name we combine both the Alison-Reynolds line of Annie Day's and the South Carolina Seabrook line.

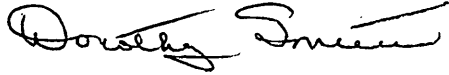

Here in the hinterlands of south Florida I am unable to find copies of the Transactions and would be most pleased if you could put me in touch with someone who could send me at least a copy of the article. I am prepared to pay, of course.

Your articles, very fine ones I might add, must give you a great deal of satisfaction. For me genealogy is just a never ending search. Presently I am working on other related South Carolina families such as, Reynolds, Seabrook, Smelie, Chaplin, Saxby, Whitmarsh, Hamilton, Theus and Baily. If you know of anyone presently working on these families I would be happy to correspond. I do this for my own pleasure and not for publication. I do belong to the Colonial Dames and the S.C. Historical Society.

Last year I corresponded with Mrs. Alston R. Taylor, 16 Gunnery Lane, Hilton Head. She was most helpful in solving our Beekman line. Maggi

Taylor is my distant cousin through the Lee-Alison line. Perhaps you know her.

Sincerely,
