Dear Robert,

I have been sick with old time flu (in spite of having had the flu shot in the fall) and came back here to a mare's nest which I'll get to later.

The last day I was here Mr. and Mrs. Pinckney came in and Robert, I must say, both were delightful - I enjoyed them so much. You must give me a few words to write about your co-author to put in a preface to our next installment of Tandon.

Taking no self credit I think number 87 was the finest issue of Transactions we have published. All the genealogy dove-tailed and I have been so proud of the finished product, in large measure due to you.

To get to the point, I am writing to forestall any letter you may receive from Virginia Gourdin. During my absence she told Alice that she was writing you a blistering letter demanding documentation for your Michaux Statement. She also said that she would wait to mail it due to the fact that you had just lost your mother. Is this true, Robert? Please let me know because I'd like to give a memorial for next Transactions to your mother.

Virginia Gourdin has called me to account ⁱⁿ before the whole Society at the Annual meeting, and I have also seen some examples of her letter writing. So, I want to prepare you for what might come. I told Alice to
