McIntosh County Guards, Co. B., 26th Regt. Georgia Volunteers
Confederate States of America

The McIntosh County Guards, which went into active service in August, 1861, and became Company B. of the 26th Georgia Regiment, a part of General A.R. Lawton's Brigade, afterward commanded by General J.B. Gordon and General C.A. Evans, joined the command of Stonewall Jackson in the Army of Northern Virginia just before the Seven Day battles around Richmond. The company participated in all the battles and the skirmishes of this Brigade up to the surrender at Appomattox Court House, Virginia, at which place it surrendered eight men, including Captain Hilton, who had been detached for some time as Acting Adjutant General of Evans' Brigade, Sergeant James Townsend being in command of the Company.

The first Captain of the Company was James M. Harris, who died from fever contracted in the service. Captain Cogdell succeeded him, and he and Lieutenant Evans were retired before the Company went into active service in Virginia.

The Company reorganized just before going to Virginia, and elected the following officers: Captain B.G. Grace; First Lieutenant Joseph Hilton; Second Lieutenant T. Crawford; Junior Second Lieutenant E.M. Blount. A few months after reaching Virginia, Captain Grace was promoted to Major of the Regiment; Lieutenant Hilton to Captain of the Company; Lieutenant Crawford to First Lieutenant; Lieutenant Blount to Second Lieutenant; and W. Klank to Junior Second Lieutenant. Major Grace and Lieutenant Klank were twice severely wounded, and were killed in battle. Lieutenant Crawford was wounded and resigned. Lieutenant Blount, who was promoted to First Lieutenant, afterward detailed and made Captain of Sharpshooters, was disabled by wounds, which none of the officers and few of the men escaped.

At the close of the War there were twenty-six officers, and men, who went to Virginia, alive; the remainder having either died from disease or wounds or were killed in battle. On the 12th of May, 1865, at Appomattox Court House, this Company lost one-half of its number in killed and wounded.

While the McIntosh Guards were not with the original "Stonewall" which made the name of General T.J. Jackson, famous they afterward became a part of his command and fully performed their chore in sustaining the proud title of "Stonewall", and in making the history of the Army of Northern Virginia.
